INTRODUCTION

FAILURE TO MEET CASA MEDICAL STANDARDS

Because of the suddenness with which a Pilot Class 1 Medical Certificate can be lost, with its serious consequences to family financial security, adequate protection against this eventuality has always been considered of the utmost importance. No less today than at any previous time.

Following difficulties experienced with the securing of satisfactory rates of coverage through outside commercial interests, the Australian Federation of Air Pilots (AFAP) Convention of 1960 had the foresight to establish a fund to provide benefits for members of AFAP who fail to maintain the medical standards necessary to exercise the privileges of their pilot's licence. Thus the Australian Air Pilots Mutual Benefit Fund (Fund) came into existence controlled by nine Trustees who were members of the AFAP.

As you would expect, Fund membership is confined to full members of the AFAP, who earn their livelihoods in the capacity of Air Pilots.

Membership coverage may be retained up to age sixty-five if so desired.

Relevant points for consideration are:

1. The Trustee is of the view that Members should at all times contribute for the maximum Standard Capital Benefit available to them, making them eligible to apply for the Premium Capital Benefit.
2. The Fund must balance benefit against risk. Therefore to optimise Benefits it is essential that Members join the Fund as early as possible during their career. To this end maximum Standard Capital Benefits and minimum contribution rates apply to those who join early and seek maximum cover.
3. From time to time the Trustee may increase the maximum Standard Capital Benefit and the value of the Premium Capital Benefit available for contribution by Members, depending on Fund viability, demand and the effects of inflation. The scale of contributions and Benefits are reviewed annually.
4. A Member contributing for the maximum Standard Capital Benefit available in a particular age bracket may continue to contribute for the maximum Standard Capital Benefit available in any age bracket thereafter. However, a Member not contributing for the maximum available Standard Capital Benefit in a particular age bracket may continue to contribute for only a proportional amount in any age bracket thereafter.
5. Application to contribute for an increased Standard Capital Benefit may be made at any time up to age forty. From ages forty to forty-nine inclusive, such application will be accepted on a once only basis up to the maximum Standard Capital Benefit available for the Member's age bracket, subject to the member's age at time of joining.
6. A Member may apply for the Premium Capital Benefit at renewal, before the age of fifty, provided the Member contributes for the maximum Standard Capital Benefit available for the Member's age bracket, subject to the member's age at time of joining.

7. Invitation to contribute for proportionally higher capital benefits may be extended by the Trustee irrespective of age up to forty-nine, if annual loss of licence allowance is increased under award conditions.
8. Contributions are due and payable on 1st May each year for the ensuing twelve month period.
9. Application for membership of the Fund should be made to:
